If you aren't, I suggest you install it, especially if you want to be able to pick passwords from a list in situations such as replacing a password with your Google or Facebook account password.

Remove Passwords from Google Chrome Remove Passwords for Google Chrome does exactly what you would expect from the name. It's a neat little app that acts as a password manager for Chrome. Once installed, it will allow you to remove passwords for accounts Google has associated with your Chrome account. It's a nice feature, but some users have complained that it also wipes out their currently saved passwords. After this screen, if you are logged in to Chrome, you need to paste the URL of the removal pass to the box next to it. And that's it!

Windows has a built-in app called Password Hint. This app allows you to add a hint to a password field without actually entering the password. Users can then search for all passwords with that hint. For example, when I want to send a video to someone, I often use the hint "footage" so I can use Windows' searching functionality. Password Hint is a simple way to add a hint to a password field and keep track of all passwords containing the hint.

First, you need to download Password Hint. Then, open Password Hint. Scroll down to the bottom of the page and click the Add button. Type the hint for the password into the field, and select the account for which to save it. Click "Add" at the bottom of the screen. You will now see all your passwords. Click the one you want to change. Select it from the drop-down menu. Click OK at the bottom of the screen. Your password will now have the new hint associated with it. Then, you can close Password Hint and enjoy a fully-cleaned Chrome profile.
